About Huntington Beach:

Huntington Beach is world-famous as "Surf City", from the 1960s Jan and Dean surf rock song of the same name, and much of surfing culture started and continues to evolve there. Huntington Beach is also mentioned by name in the Beach Boys song "Surfin' Safari", where "at Huntington and Malibu they're shooting the pier".

The year-round temperature averages 67 degrees, and every month generally has good weather. However, the months of January to March can be rainy. Huntington Beach also boasts the largest unspoiled coastal wetlands in California: Bolsa Chica Wetlands, where many migratory birds stop and nest.

The Huntington Beach Pier is one of the longest concrete piers in the world, and is the second most popular sight here, after the beach itself.

Main Street is a shopping and gathering place for residents and tourists alike, with sidewalk cafes, surf shops and live music all vying for attention.

Huntington Beach has some of the largest stretches of open-sand beaches in all of California, and is the site of world-class surfing and volleyball events yearly.
